

Job Opportunity: Project Archivist (London, 3-Year Fixed-Term)

INSTITUTE OF LANGUAGES, CULTURES AND SOCIETIES
School of Advanced Study | University of London

Project Archivist (Martin and Hannah Norbert-Miller Trust)

3-Year Fixed-Term

The Institute of Languages, Cultures and Societies (ILCS) is recruiting a Project Archivist. The post is available on three-year fixed-term and is funded by the Martin Miller and Hannah Norbert-Miller Trust. The post holder's task is to catalogue the archival material relating to German/Austrian exiles donated to the Research Centre for German & Austrian Exile Studies and/or the ILCS according to professional standards and to promote the resulting Archive collections to public and academic audiences.

The post holder will be based in the Senate House Library, and work closely with the ILCS and Research Centre for German & Austrian Exile Studies in promoting the archives and public engagement.

If you would like a confidential conversation about this opportunity before applying, please contact Professor Godela Weiss-Sussex at the Institute of Languages, Cultures and Societies (godela.weiss-sussex@sas.ac.uk).

Applications are by cv and covering letter, to be submitted via the link below before the closing date. Application closes at midnight on Friday, 2 June 2023.
